

Whither Direct Physical Loss or Damage in Canada

Date: March 22, 2021

Author: Anthony Gatensby

This article was originally published by Global Legal Group. Click here to view the PDF file.

Dominic T. Clarke and Anthony H. Gatensby have collaborated to write an article entitled, "Whither Direct Physical Loss or Damage in Canada".

The level of disruption unleashed by the COVID-19 pandemic on commerce worldwide has been, indisputably, unprecedented. Canada is no exception. The Canadian Federation of Independent Businesses recently estimated that more than "200,000 Canadian Business could close permanently during the COVID-19 crisis", a figure which could grow in the event that restrictive shutdown orders continue to be issued by Canada's provincial and municipal governments.

Read the full article, featured in the International Comparative Legal Guide to: Insurance & Reinsurance 2021 edition above.

The information contained in this article is intended to provide information and comment, in a general fashion, about recent cases and related practice points of interest. The information and views expressed are not intended to provide legal advice. For specific legal advice, please contact us.