Blaney McMurtry Lawyers to Attend TAGLaw International Legal Conference in Boston

Date: May 01, 2013

Michael Penman, Steve Popoff and James Edney, partners at Blaney McMurtry LLP, will attend the 28th international conference of the firm's legal alliance, TAGLaw®, from May 6th through 8th in Boston.

One of the most anticipated sessions at this year's Conference will include a panel of General Counsel from several industries speaking their minds about working with outside law firms; providing their candid insight and sharing observations on what it takes for law firms to win their business, and then, to keep it.

"Aside from the world class speakers and sessions offered at our conferences, these gatherings provide our members with the ability to build and maintain strong relationships with other members from around the world," said Robert Sattin, President of TAGLaw®. "These relationships are vital for our members and in serving the growing needs of their clients.

Blaney McMurtry has been a member of TAGLaw® since 2000. The legal network, founded in 1998, is a worldwide alliance of high-quality, independent law firms. The alliance today ranks among the five largest legal alliances in the world, and earlier in 2013, TAGLaw® was recognized by Chambers Global as an "elite" law firm network. Through TAGLaw®, businesses receive the benefit of local knowledge and strong, coordinated representation throughout the world. For more information visit TAGLaw.com or blaney.com.
